Thank You for joining us this evening for what will be a very entertaining and enlightening experience! Like most of you, many of us have been told stories about characters that became well-known because of obstacles they had to overcome. In each of these stories, the “hero” of the story inevitably had to deal with a really bad villain! We were so inspired by their heroics, that we shared these stories with our children. Now, as we get a little older, we hear our children repeating these stories to others. We smile when we visualize our children someday telling these beautiful stories to their children...our grandchildren! But what if it’s all a lie? What if the “Villain” in the story was being misrepresented? Aren’t there ALWAYS two sides to a story? Isn’t that something we try to teach our children? Thinking along those lines, our NEAT KIDZ searched the globe this past winter and were fortunate enough to find four villains that wanted “THEIR STORY” to be told! So, thanks to efforts of your children, all four of these “So-Called Villains”, are here with us this evening! Maybe after we listen to their version of the story, we’ll see things a little differently! So, “What really happened”? Let’s find out!

This could be really NEAT!
